Movies & Languages Film Festival 2022-2023

	The Duke	A RIDICULOUSLY CHARMING  BRITISH COMEDY ***** ***** ****
About the movie (in English with English subtitles)
DIRECTOR	Roger Michell	BROADBENT
YEAR/COUNTRY	2020/ UK	MIRREN
GENRE	Comedy, drama
ACTORS	Jim Broadbent, Helen Mirren, Fionn Whitehead, Anna Maxwell Martin and Matthew Goode	N CHEFINAS 2021

PLOT

This film is a great example of British humor, and it is also a post-Brexit movie that is a bit critical in an English understatement kind of way of the British establishment. It involves the overlapping of two stories.

The first one involves the working-class protagonist (Kempton Bunton) fighting against injustice in British society: for example, he thinks that the BBC licensing fee is unfair, that war veterans deserve more help, and that immigrants, like Pakistanis, should be treated just like other Brits. His complaining, however, often makes life difficult for his family, especially his wife who works more than he does.

The second story involves the acquisition of a Goya portrait of the Duke of Wellington by the National Gallery in London in 1961, and the subsequent promotion of the painting by the government and mass-media.

LANGUAGE

The language is quite sophisticated at times, involving play on words, long phrasal verbs, as well as a lot of funny slang expressions.

VOCABULARY

A	To numely the newsy to tally hadly about nearly Aye : yes	To punch the pope: to talk badly about people who have power
Telly: TV	The whereabouts: the exact location of Coil or tube: televisions at the beginning	Paki : an offensive term for a Pakistani needed tubes or coils to work Nuisance: something disturbing	To do a runner: to run away from something or somewhere
Schilling: old unit of English money	Tata: good-bye
To be your cup of tea: to be something that	To be living in sin: to be living together without you really like	being married ITV: a private English television channel that	To shaft someone: to cheat someone pays for itself through advertising Statute: a law that has been formally	To be done for: to be ruined approved

England stood firm: England defended itself	To go easy on me: not to punish someone severely
Half baked: stupid	Bigotry: racial prejudice
To keep your head down: to try not to be	Without batting an eyelid: without showing any noticed especially by the law	emotion sign
To keep my nose clean: to try not to have	To get someone off: to manage to free someone problems with the law	from a bad situation
To source the car: to find a car to use	To make your bed than lie in it: you created the situation for yourself and, consequently, you have to suffer the consequences.
To nick toilet rolls: to steal toilet paper	Old Bailey: the criminal court building in London
Babycham: a brand of apple cider	A plee: an official declaration one makes before a trial
Feeble: weak	To be finished by tea: to be finished before dinner
To be skint: to be without money	To be daft: to be stupid
I had it up to here: I am fed up	To have a screw loose: to be a bit crazy
Lend me your ears: listen to what I am	A bookie: a person whose business is accepting saying. It is a quote from Shakespeare's	and paying out money resolving around bets Julius Ceasar
To pick pockets: to steal people's wallets	To bribe the bobbies: to pay the police so they let you do something illegal To build bridges: to plan for the future	The past is another country: if it happened in the past it does not matter any more Grief: the deep sorrow one feels when	To deprive someone of something: not to let someone dies	someone have or do something To take to something like a swan to water: to	Bucket: the container you use to hold learn something very easily	water/liquid
The dock: the prison	Lawnmower: the machine that cuts grass
Utmost gravity: very very serious	Geordie: a person from the Newcastle area

